Dear friends, partners and colleagues,

This year, we'd like to take you diving into the world of fantasy and adventure that is Rulantica – a Nordic saga for ages 10 and up, based around a sunken island and an ancient pact between men and merpeople. The legendary island world comes to life at Germany's Europa-Park, the world's largest seasonal theme park, and its newly opened Rulantica water park.

How do we instil values into children's hearts and minds? Here, we're trying to make a whole range of burning issues understandable for children. The non-fiction titles for readers of 8 and up – Tweeting Won't Solve Anything, Donald Trump! and the Make-It-Better Book – tackle current issues and encourage children to become active themselves.

Who or what will follow the Donald Trump era? That's the question young author Lina Frisch asks herself in her debut Falling Skye – where she pictures a world in which the USA have become the Transparent Nations. No more impulsive decisions, no lies; the population is clearly divided into emotional and rational personalities. But the new order comes at a high price for the young heroine Skye ... Immerse yourself in this clever and breathlessly exciting dystopia about the dangers of populism!

We have a new role model to enliven little readers in 2020: our chameleon Schmitt. Schmitt encourages kindergarten-age children to play to their strengths, to have an opinion, and to get involved in things with confidence. Because one thing applies whatever age you are: it's good to be brave!

Your Coppenrath rights team is happy to support your publishing objectives with samples, pricings and schedules for our novelties and strong backlist titles.

- A clever dystopia on the dangers of populism
- 5 years after Trump: lies, discrimination and emotional decisions no longer exist ...
- For fans of Divergent and The Handmaid's Tale
- A strong new voice in German YA

Five years ago, the USA became the Transparent Nations. Its citizens had had enough of impulsive decisions, which had brought their country to the edge of catastrophe. After that, people finally stopped being judged by their skin colour, gender or religion, but on whether they were rational or emotional. 16-year-old Skye is convinced she's a Rational, with a glittering future ahead of her. But that's not how the new order sees it...

Skye is excited: it's not long until her Test, which will determine whether she is a Rational or an Emotional – a question that will determine the course of her whole life. But the exams in the test centre are disturbing, and the mysterious Examiner, who keeps flouting the rules to help her out of risky situations, is driving her out of her mind. When a fatal accident happens, Skye's doubts begin to crystallise: where do the girls who slip down the daily ranking disappear to? Why doesn't there seem to be a single Emotional among the boys? To her horror, Skye realises who is supposed to pay the price for the new order in the Transparent Nations: it's her.

Lina Frisch is 22 years old and comes from Flensburg on the Baltic Sea. She is studying psychology in Osnabrück. Inspired by her studies, her debut YA novel explores up-to-the-minute issues such as feminism and equal rights, populism and fanaticism. Above all, however, Falling Skye is a love story and a page-turner about a brave girl who stands up to a sinister world despite her fears – because it's important.

Aquina the mermaid has always felt different to the other merpeople of Rulantica. Not long after her twelfth birthday, she learns something incredible: she has a twin brother. Mats is a human boy! And right now, he's in great danger. There is no holding Aquina back, she has to find her true family before it's too late.

Mats has grown up in an orphanage, since he was found on the beach as a baby. He's always been afraid of the sea and the water. But he has no idea that he's about to dive headlong into the greatest adventure of his life! When Mats and Aquina meet, they fulfil a centuries-old prophecy by the Nordic gods – and it can mean either the salvation or the end of the whole island world of Rulantica ...

Michaela Hanauer lives with her husband and cat in Munich – when she isn't off on her travels, exploring the other side of the world. If she hadn't become a children's author, she would have taken flying lessons on a magic carpet, raced dolphins through the sea or started a time travel agency. She met Aquina, Mats and Snorri so they could tell her their story and she could write it down. And so she knows exactly where Rulantica lies – but she has promised never to reveal the secret!

- Highs and lows in the life of a young witch
- Modern, sassy witch character
- For fans of The Magic Flower Shop and Four Magical Sisters

Who on earth would want to become a herb witch? Young witch Elisabeth Aurora Vermeer, or Lizzy for short, certainly doesn't. Unfortunately, she doesn't get a say in who teaches her the art of witchcraft. That decision is made by her aunts, who have gathered for Lizzy's twelfth birthday – thirteen witches, just as the Great Book says. And they seem determined to apprentice Lizzy to Great Aunt Camilla... a herb witch. Really?! But in the midst of all this, there is a knock at the door – and there stands Mayla, the most beautiful sea witch Lizzy has ever seen. What does she want? And who has suddenly turned Great Aunt Camilla into a giant stink weed? Lizzy decides to get to the bottom of her family's secrets...

Andrea Russo studied art and German at university, and now lives with her husband and her Labrador in the Ruhr valley. The inspiration for her children's books comes from her daughter, who is now grown up but used to have a whole lot of crazy ideas – and from the students at a special-needs school where she worked as a teacher. Andrea Russo has been writing books for various publishers since 2009.

- One time-turner and a whole lot of chaos
- A fantastic celebration of friendship
- For readers of the Ruby Red trilogy

Claire and Lulu are "soul mates": they've done everything together ever since they met. They've been looking forward to the big school party for weeks, but then they make a total embarrassment of themselves – right in front of the two boys they are secretly in love with. If only they could turn back time! The friends are more than a little amazed when they manage to do just that, with the help of an inherited piece of jewellery. They quickly discover the practical uses of the time-turner. Such as when you have to iron out the mistakes in your maths homework ... In their excitement, however, they don't notice the danger they are in: there is someone who wants to own the time-turner at any cost. Almost too late, Claire and Lulu realise that it isn't just their friendship at stake ...

Tobi hates Alexandra! She's pretty, smart, cool, and she's been everywhere in the world because her father is a pilot. And as if that weren't enough, she's better at football than he is, too. After one decisive match, Tobi yells at Alexandra in frustration: he doesn't care if she's a better player or if she could make it round the world in 80 days with Daddy's air miles! But Alexandra's answer takes him by surprise: "Eight days. I can get around the world in eight days. Shall we make a bet? And you can come with me as my witness." Before he knows what's happening, Tobi is on a plane to Hong Kong. Destination: once round the world. But Tobi gradually realises that there is more behind the bet than just a desire for adventure. Alexandra is keeping a secret from him – and it gets the two of them into a world of trouble ...

Imagine you live in one of the poorest places in England – and then your mum tells you she’s marrying a Baron and you’re going to live in a castle! That’s exactly what happens to Abby, whose friends all start calling her “Downton Abby”. Moving into Grave Horse Castle is even worse than she feared: with all the loyal servants and the etiquette rules, Abby feels anything but princess-like ... And then there’s the unapproachable Grey, the Baron’s adopted son. When several horses fall ill – including his stallion Black Hawk – the two of them get closer. But there is a dark secret surrounding Grey: what really happened all those years ago, when his mother had her fatal riding accident? And what does the snobby Lady Camilla, who is always hanging around the Baron, have to do with it?

Kai Lüftner was born in Berlin in 1975. He has worked as a streetworker, cabaret artist, social worker, pizza delivery driver, doorman, lyricist, comedy author, concert organiser and radio editor, as well as in nursing homes and children's homes. He now earns his money as a musician, audio-book adapter, director and author of children's books. He is the father of two sons and lives on the Danish island Bornholm. In his free time, he practises martial arts, gets tattoos, campaigns for animal conservation, reads a lot, makes and listens to music, collects coins, and goes on treasure hunts with his dog Gassi.

CLIP-CLOP MERRILY ON HIGH!

Penny Pony series:

Each title:
Patricia Schröder / Sabine Rothmund
8+ / 144-160 pp. / hardcover / special colour / € 11.00
Rights sold to (series):
Czech Republic, The Netherlands

- Unique combination: comic novel plus popular pony theme
- Penny and Pia find adventure at the Christmas market
- Lavishly illustrated, with cartoons on every page

Pia, Penny and Moppie are looking forward to the Christmas market, where they will get to help Penny's mother on her chocolate stall. But a few strange things happen before they make it there: Penny turns into a pony on the street when they hear a whinny nearby (oops!), Moppie falls over and has to go to hospital, and on top of that there's a creepy guy in a Santa costume hot on their heels, taking photos of them. Did he manage to get a snap of Penny's transformation? Well – so much for heavenly peace! Pia and Penny-Pony get on the case ... The finale of the Penny Pony series!

Patricia Schröder lives together with her husband and a bunch of animals. Her 'actual' job is textile designer. But because she'd much rather come up with crazy stories than with flower and coat patterns she quit her old job years ago. Meanwhile Schröder belongs to the most popular German writers for children's and juvenile books – and occasionally she changes into a pony girl herself.

- Spooky times at the pony school
- Strong theme: boarding school and ponies
- School adventure full of courage, friendship and the love of horses

On a night-time hack, Emma suddenly comes face to face with a black pony on the Fairy Marsh. Emma and her friends are very excited. Where did it come from? Might it not be a real horse at all, but the famous enchanted fairy stallion Tharanel? The Kirschtal girls are eager to solve the mystery. But someone else is after the mysterious pony as well...

Meja Mermaid Helps the Baby Turtles - Vol. 6

ISBN 978-3-649-62943-6

NEW

Shimmering fish, enchanting coral reefs and cute baby turtles: you'll find all of those in South-Sea mermaid Taluha's home. But her underwater world is under threat: the turquoise water is filling up with more and more transparent, flabby stuff, and when the little baby turtles eat it, they get very sick. The old sea-turtle Kaipo's emergency room is already filled to bursting! Can Meja Mermaid and her starfish Lille help the South Sea-dwellers with their magic?

Meja Mermaid Saves the Little Polar Bear - Vol. 5

ISBN 978-3-649-62942-9

NEW

A message from the North Sea gets the Mermaid family in a flap. Polar bear professor Knut Knudsen asks Meja's scientist parents for advice: the North Sea is getting warmer and warmer, and the animals are in danger. An exciting trip to the North Pole beckons – and this time, Meja Mermaid gets to go with her parents. They have only just reached Iceland when they get a call for help: Nalle the polar bear cub is floating out to sea on a little iceberg. That sounds like a new mission for Meja the Magic Mermaid!

“Finally – here we go! We’re off to the faraway island!” cries Blue, the unicorn with the sky-blue coat. The three little unicorns have never set foot on this distant isle, because the rough sea around it doesn’t let anyone through. But luckily the siblings have managed to calm the water with a special spell. And on the island, they are greeted by an exciting cave world filled with wonderful crystals and exotic plants. But soon Vanilla, Rosie and Blue make a surprising discovery: they aren’t the only unicorns on the island.

- Books of the successful German audio drama series
- More than 2 million German audio dramas sold and over 60 million streams of the "Hully Boo" brand
- Second feature film release of "Hully Boo" in 2020

Little Hully Boo dreams of one day haunting Castle Burgeck. But for now, he's just an apprentice ghost – he hasn't learned how to really scare people yet! And where better to learn than in the attic of the castle's primary school? It's the secret headquarters for ghosts, witches and other magical creatures. Frederik the bat teaches Hully Boo everything he needs to know: how to make things float in the air, bring suits of armour to life and walk through walls. It isn't easy! Especially when you're as loud and clumsy as Hully Boo. But the ghost's heart is in the right place and – together with the little witch Hedda Hex – he helps plenty of children when they're in trouble.

How Little Hully Boo got his Rattling Chains / The Halloween Party · Vol. 2

ISBN 978-3-649-63448-5

NEW

The little ghost Hully Boo and his friend Hedda Hex the witch have their hands full once again. Anton urgently needs their help! If his parents don't manage to renovate their farm-hotel soon, they'll have to sell it to the greedy Mr Münzsack and move away from Burgeck. And then there's the school Halloween party, in which Hui Buh and Hedda Hex do a lot of interfering. After all, each of them wants to win the competition and be the scariest. It's no surprise that in the process, they manage to convince even the grumpy teacher Mrs Sauermilch, who doesn't believe in ghosts and witches, that they really do exist!

The authors Ulrike Rogler and Simone Veenstra have been writing as a team for many years. They have worked together on several book projects and the Hully Boo series of audio dramas. They developed the spin-off series "Little Hully Boo" for EUROPA in 2016. Since then, the team has produced 12 episodes.

- Strong characters to join in with
- Promotes speech and a sense of rhythm
- Melodic verses

Strongly rhythmic rhymes stimulate and encourage even the youngest children to read along and join in. And the best instrument of all is always there: your own body. You can have fun making all kinds of different sounds with it! Music teachers recommend this book, because it promotes ...

- ... trying out your own voice
- ... a healthy view of your body
- ... coordination

- A story about fairness and friendship
- By successful author Michael Engler
- Fascinating underwater world illustrations
- In cooperation with Europa-Park

The little six-armed octopus Snorri, the famous and well-loved Rulantica mascot from Europa-Park in Rust, gets his first picture-book adventure. What a boring day! Even in Aquamaris, the legendary city at the bottom of the sea, there isn't much going on today. But then Snorri, and his friend the little mermaid Melodia, get wind of some real gold treasure. It is said to be hidden in the wreck of the Black Crow. Snorri knows exactly where the pirate ship is: in the ship graveyard. And that's a pretty dangerous place! Luckily, Aquarian offers to help them. But is the little merboy really their friend? Or is he just after the treasure?

- The friendship between a little girl and a very special pony
- A heart-warming story
- With beautiful, unique photos

School holidays with Grandma! Lotti loves this time best of all. And this holiday, something very special happens: one morning, a pony turns up in Grandma's hallway! Is it lost? It must come from the Heitmann stables, says Grandma. She's right: the pony's name is Dotti, and it keeps running away when it's bored – and it gets bored a lot! Boredom? Lotti knows what to do when you're bored: play hide and seek, swim and paint, picnic and go camping... luckily, Grandma has a huge garden. These are the most fantastic holidays of all! But one day, they have to come to an end. Lotti is very, very sad. But then Grandma has a big surprise for her.

Saturday morning, 5.47 am. Joschi is wide awake – but sadly, Mum and Dad aren't. And Joschi really, really wants to listen to an audiobook. But he can only do that in the living room. And there are monsters ...

But when the monsters go after Trinchen rabbit's carrots, Joschi plucks up all his courage and blocks their way. Knock, Platsch und Pong are cupboard-crawlers – so called because they crawl into the human world through one cupboard, and out again through another. The three of them would really like to get back to their own world right away, but not every cupboard is suitable for crawling. Can Joschi help them find the right one ... ?

- Gives children the courage to believe in themselves
- Exciting protagonist: the chameleon turns himself into every other animal
- A rhyming story in catchy couplets

Schmitt, the chameleon, can transform himself into any other animal. With such a special gift, life is easy and you can quickly make friends with other animals – or so he thinks. But he's a long way off the mark, because Schmitt is still Schmitt: he takes things much too literally and keeps putting his foot in it. Now he has to prove what he can do to everyone who doubts him! A picture book that encourages children to believe in their own abilities and have the self-confidence to pursue their goals.

- By bestselling author Sabine Zett

The little tooth fairy is all excited. „I would like a beautiful castle, with lots of rooms, big windows and pretty turrets! And only the best milk teeth can be used to build it!“ It’s a big task for the two tooth knights Vin and Mel, who help the tooth fairy collect the milk teeth. Can they get sooo many shining white milk teeth from children that they’ll have enough to build a whole castle? A wonderful story for all children with wobbly teeth: just put a milk tooth in the tooth-tin under your pillow, and the next morning you’ll find a little surprise from the tooth fairy and her tooth knights! (Psst: parents might have to help with that part!)

The Grumbletroll ... Wants to be First! · Vol. 3

NEW

ISBN 978-3-649-63524-6

- Over 50,000 copies of the series sold
- Important topics: being first, comparing yourself with others, a healthy sense of self-worth
- A story told and illustrated with humour, and without any finger-wagging
- Character with high identification potential for children (and their parents)

Today, the Grumbletroll and his friends want to try something new: a soapbox car race, and the Grumbletroll really, really wants to win! But as soon as the race has started the Grumbletroll is in last place. His soapbox, however, has a special feature: a sail. When he unfurls it, he overtakes everyone from behind. Bird drives into the crash barrier in shock, and Hedgehog into a rock. Mouse breaks off her steering wheel and Hare's brakes stop working. Grumbletroll rolls over the line in first place. But no one cheers or congratulates him. Everyone is too busy taking care of his friends. The disappointment and anger rumble and grumble in his tummy like a storm brewing. It's so bad that he wants to throw himself on the ground and start yelling and kicking ... but he doesn't do that! The Grumbletroll realises that his friends need help, and that just then, his victory isn't important. A picture book about fairness and true friendship.

The Grumbletroll · Vol. 1

ISBN 978-3-649-62893-4

What a splendid life – if it wasn't for the stupid hut that falls down even though the little troll went to so much trouble to build it. Or the stupid tree that he can shove and shake as much he likes without a single apple falling. The little troll gets terribly angry. It's like there's a storm inside him. With lightning shooting out of the sky and thunder rumbling and grumbling mightily. Yes, that's exactly how he feels: he's a troll who rumbles and grumbles. A grumbletroll!

The Grumbletroll ... isn't Grumbling Today! · Vol. 2

ISBN 978-3-649-63164-4

Of course he will! The Grumbletroll makes a bet with his friends. But when they swipe a delicious cake from under his nose, all he wants to do is scream and stamp his feet. Then he remembers the bet – and puts the grumblestorm aside. But when his friends laugh at him, he can't take it any longer. Now the Grumbletroll wants to grumble and rumble and thunder and flash with anger. And that's exactly what he does! Will his friends be able to make it up to him ... ?

- Series with 'strong' heroes who are allowed to show weaknesses
- Dealing with good and bad prejudices and other concerns
- Kindergarten topics and everyday situations, brought to life by Günther Jakobs
- Plush toy available

Hektor and his friends cause trouble in the forest. Hektor, Squirrel, Owl and Hedgehog are a super-strong gang (even if the fawn doesn't want to play with them). But then their football goes over into BB's garden. And BB is dangerous, because BB stands for Bad Bear. Of course, Hektor will go and get the ball back for his friends – after all, he's the bravest! ... or is he?

A new picture book series with topics like fear and being cool, bravery and cowardice, good and bad prejudices and the little things pre-school children worry about.

Hektor does (not) Play with Girls · Vol. 2

ISBN 978-3-649-62892-7

Hektor is happy: the butterfly house he has built with Klara and Mücke is sooo pretty! But Rocky Hedgehog says butterflies are just for girls. I guess that's true, thinks Hektor, and goes off to play treeball with Rocky. But the girls are cross and challenge them to a match: girls against boys! And in the end, Hektor has to admit that a game of treeball has never been as much fun as it is with Klara and Mücke ...

Hilarious bandit story

The Wild Bandit Thunderfart and the Cursed Wild Boar Spell - Vol. 5

NEW

ISBN 978-3-649-63485-0

- Book 5 in the successful series about the wild robber captain
- Popular topics for boys: bandits and farting
- Funny story with elements of slapstick
- From the pen of successful author and illustrator Walko

Curses! The little witch Simsibim is just about to test out a new magic spell when the wild bandit Thunderfart comes round the corner. And poufff – the robber captain gets turned into a hare with a beard and a robber’s hat. Trying to turn him back only makes matters worse: now Thunderfart is a wild boar. Obviously he can’t stay like that. But luckily, Robin stumbles upon an ancient reversing spell in one of Simsibim’s books. Though for the elixir, they will need bristles from the tail and the ears of a real wild boar – and everyone knows how terribly angry they get when you annoy them ... All the same, Robin appeals to his fellow bandits’ sense of honour. And together they set off – only to end up in a tree after running away from a giant boar. The robber captain has no choice but to lie in wait himself. Can his thunderfart get him out of another tricky situation ... ?

- Eases talk with children about death

Ole, Paula and Lotta are playing in the garden when they discover a bird behind a pile of leaves. It's lying there, completely still – on its back, eyes shut, feathers ruffled. "It's not alive anymore!" Lotta can tell: for she knows about these things. "After all, my grandma has been dead, too, once." But how is it really with death? What happens at a funeral? Do all dead people go to heaven? And what are the kids supposed to do now with the little birdy? This colourful and lightly written book is perfect for introducing the topic and initiating a first open conversation with the family.

"Lilly can't run fast. She can't climb trees and she can't speak very well, either. But Lilly laughs when she swings high up into the sky. She paints brilliantly colourful pictures with her fingers, and she beams when the sun shines. Sometimes Lilly is a bit slow – but I like to take my time, too. And sometimes she's stubborn – just like me. Lilly is my sister and I love her ..." Irmgard Partmann tells an unbiased, heart-warming story about little Lilly, who has Down's Syndrome, and her big sister – and makes it clear that love has nothing to do with ability and achievement. Lilly stands for other children with mental or physical disabilities. She has a firm place in this world – in her family, with us all. A special book about a special little girl.

While they are on holiday, Princess Lillifee and the two mice Cindy and Clara find a beautiful shell on a golden chain lying on the beach. They quickly discover that it belongs to the little mermaid Nella Nixe, and plan to take it back to her. Nella Nixe is the youngest of five sisters, who are very busy in their splendid underwater palace. Whether it's underwater ballet, coral gardening or collecting pretty pearls – each of the older mermaids likes to focus on their favourite hobby. But that doesn't leave them much time to pay attention to their little sister Nella. And now she has suddenly vanished without a trace! It's a good thing that Princess Lillifee and the mice are looking for her. Will they be able to find her and give her magic shell back? A moving story about being mindful of others, being there for and looking after each other.

Capt'n Sharky

- 14th volume in our successful series
- A total of over 600,000 books sold
- Excitement and action for little ones

When Capt'n Sharky and his crew pay a visit to the tortoise island, they are suddenly attacked. They are forced to watch helplessly as Capt'n Rufus and his sinister gang sink their ship with just one clever cannon shot and kidnap their friend Isi, the little tortoise! But Jakai, the queen of all the tortoises, who has lived on the island since time immemorial, is able to help them – with a magic ship. Will Capt'n Sharky and his crew manage to catch Capt'n Rufus and rescue Isi? A fantastical, exciting pirate adventure with Capt'n Sharky and his crew, which enters new territory in both the story and the illustration.

- A child's-eye view of Switzerland
- Includes real letters

To be on the safe side, Sophie puts Felix into her rucksack before she and her family arrive in Zermatt on the Glacier Express. She doesn't want him disappearing again! But they have only just reached Switzerland when her rucksack is accidentally swapped with a mountaineer's ... Felix suddenly finds himself on the Matterhorn – and that's just the first stop on his Swiss adventure. This is the story of all the things that happen to the little rabbit between the Matterhorn and Basel, Alpine folk festivals, chocolate and bell factories, told with the help of four real letters and some surprising extras.

“Look Paul, there’s a carousel back there!” cries Sophie. “There’s a carousel here at the Christmas market?” asks Dad. “Yes, let’s go on it,” says Paul. As soon as Sophie and Paul have climbed onto the ride with its beautiful white reindeer, the lights come on and soft music begins to play. The carousel starts to turn, going faster and faster – and taking the children off to the North Pole, where Santa and his elves are in the midst of preparations for Christmas ... A dreamy journey into a Christmas wonderland – with poetic words and atmospheric illustrations.

- A Christmas story with a difference
- Current topics: exile and seeking refuge, helping and sharing
- Story by „Felix“ author Annette Langen

„When I was little, everything we owned fitted into one suitcase. Like lots of other people, we had lost our home. A lot of houses were destroyed. Ours, too. We went to stay with relatives in the countryside ...“ One evening, just before Christmas, someone else moves in: a young couple. Everyone in the house budes up to make room, and they give the woman a comfortable bed by the stove, because she’s pregnant. And on Christmas night, her baby is born. A little Baby Jesus! In a few, sensitive words, Annette Langen tells a Christmas story with a difference, based on real events.

- Seven of the best-loved Bible stories from the Old and New Testaments
- Very lively, age-appropriate retelling
- With four transformation flaps

Paradise is a beautiful garden, where humans and animals live happily together. God gives them what they need, because he has made everything: fruit, trees, water, air, rain, sun, moon and stars. Margret Nussbaum doesn't just retell the Bible stories in this book. She takes an individual, age-appropriate approach to each story, giving the very young target readership a lively, attractive way of accessing these biblical texts.

- A plea for a cleaner planet and peace on earth
- Nine fictional letters to leading politicians
- Galvanising and evocative in equal measure

Our planet is in grave danger but the world's leading politicians just sit in meetings and talk. That's not good enough. We must act and we must act NOW! Our planet needs us. What can we do to protect our environment and promote world peace? In nine fictional letters to Donald Trump, Angela Merkel, Emmanuel Macron, Kim Jong-un, Vladimir Putin and others, children explain what they want from our world leaders. They get straight to the point on burning issues that urgently need to be addressed. They also explain how each of us can make a difference – by getting involved, for instance! School children write letters to the world's top politicians.

- Highly topical and relevant to everyday life
- Improve the world with projects lasting from one hour to several days
- An appeal to society's sense of justice

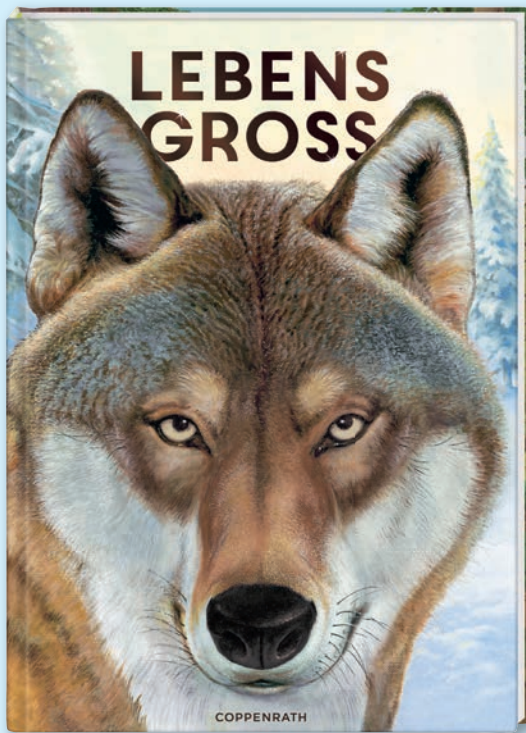

Children change the world! The world isn't always the way we'd like it to be. There are people who have too little of the most important things. And the world has much too much of some other things: rubbish, for instance. And sometimes there is something quite simple lacking in our everyday lives: friendship and good ideas. That can all be changed! Not everything at once, of course, and not straight away. But little by little, if everyone just does what they can. Where we start doesn't matter; the important thing is that we start today!

EMY award

- 15 impressive life-size animal portraits
- High quality cover with embossing and foil
- A non-fiction book in a class of its own
- EMY award September 2019

How would you like to suddenly come face to face with a wolf? Look deep into a deer's eyes? That's almost impossible in the wild. Most animals are shy and hide away from people. But in this book, they look at us. In the eye, close up, head-on. First class illustrations depict 15 animals, as big as they really are. Life-size!

WE FIND INSPIRATION EVERYWHERE

250 Years of Copenrath - The publishing house Copenrath located at Münster's harbour has a long history: Founded in 1768 by Josef Heinrich Copenrath the firm remained family-owned for over two centuries. In 1977 the young graphic artist and publisher Wolfgang Hölker took over, giving the company a completely new direction with his innovative ideas. Today, children's and gift books are the backbone of this privately-owned company. "I have to be proud of the books that I publish", Wolfgang Hölker says.

So arose a program for the production of ambitious books of high visual quality - always with that special something. A particular strength is the emphasis on supporting book series and characters with non-book products - even internationally, through Die Spiegelburg International (www.spiegelburg-international.com).

In addition, Copenrath imprint Hölker Verlag is an award-winning program - publishing unique, visually-appealing and well-researched cookery and lifestyle books. (www.hoelker-verlag.de)
